To do this requires moral backbone, in wholesale quantities, for it sometimes requires the taking of a position inimical to that of a majority of its patrons, and to be true to itself and that high standard without which no real newspaper can succeed, it must fight its friends and oftimes oppose their favorite measures.

The newspaper is not infallible, and is sometimes wrong, but it will be last year and the year before. He modfound in going through its files, that in most matters it is pre-eminently the people of his ward in a collective right, and that its mistakes are generwhile its statements as to the main and material things are correct.

The Larger Sizes Are All Hand Forged, and In This Work the Metal Must Be of Precisely the Right Heat and the Blows Quick and Sure.

The great bulk of chains, including all cable and mooring chains, are sold the pound. The price ranges from to 12 cents a pound, according to the size, material and quality.

All cables and other very heavy chains are made of wrought iron, and there are made wrought iron chains of of material a quarter of an inch in diameter, but nowadays most of the chain used in comparatively smaller sizes is made of soft steel, such chain being made in sizes ranging by sixeenths from three-sixteenths of an

In other days all chains was handmade, but the modern chain is of soft steel and machine made. There is taken a long bar of steel, which is bent cold around a mandril that is oval in looks like a spiral spring with its colls cut up cold in a cutting machine, which cuts it into as many parts as there are colls, each of these being the material for a link, and at the same time the machine spreads each of these sections apart a little at the opening and cuts on each of the two free ends a long scarf or bevel and bends the ends over

This bent piece of steel is now in shape, roughly speaking, like a letter a good mixer, we have his word U with rather long arms and with its two ends bent over inward. It needs only to have those scarved ends welded together to make it a link of chain. The chainmaker sits at a foot oper-
